Staying Safe Online

The internet is a brilliant resource for young people, enabling them to learn information about a vast range of topics, explore new interests with like-minded people, and stay connected to family and friends. However, there are also risks to using the internet, so it's important to talk openly as a family about ways to stay safe. To support this discussion, we've put together some top tips and further resources.

Top tips for staying safe online:

- 🔒 Keep your social media accounts set to 'private', so that only people you connect with can see your posts. Stay as anonymous as possible – even sharing your school could put you at risk. The whole family can learn about different social media networks and appropriate safety measures by visiting net-aware.org.uk.
- 🔒 Check your location settings. Don't allow apps to access your location by default, and only share your location with close friends and family – and then only if you feel comfortable.
- 🔒 Keep your passwords safe. Don't write them down or share them. A good way to set secure passwords is to use a unique memorable phrase, such as 'PurpleCactusMug' or 'HairyEagleTree'.
- 🔒 Think before you post. Would you be happy for a parent/grandparent/teacher/future employer to see what you're posting? Express yourself in a way that reflects how you would want a wide spectrum of people to see you.
- 🔒 Be kind. Cyberbullying can have a serious effect on someone's wellbeing, regardless of whether it takes place anonymously. Treat people how you would want to be treated.
- 🔒 Not everyone is always who they say they are. Although some people do make new friends over the internet, some individuals create fake personas, which can make meeting in person very dangerous. Never arrange to meet or share personal details without talking to a trusted adult first.
- 🔒 Think critically about everything you encounter online. From news articles to 'special offers', there's lots of false information out there. Fact check by finding other sources for information. If an offer or 'competition win' seems too good to be true, chances are it's a scam – don't share any personal details.
